Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The New Spirit of the Nation; Or Ballads: And Songs by the Writers of the Nation; Containing Songs and Ballads Published Since Edited This is the Spirit of the Nation, as it has been known from that day to this - the wade mecum of Irish patriotism - which has gone the round of the world; whose kindling thoughts and musical words have been a cherished possession in Irish homes, - not only within the four seas of Ireland, but on every distant shore to which inexorable fate has driven her exiles. Still, taken as representing the whole volume of song produced by the writers of the Nation, it is clearly inadequate. In the first place the verses it contains do not go beyond the end of the year 1845, although, for many years after that date, the stream of poetry continued to flow plenteously from the fountain-head. If it be asked why there was so sudden a cessation in the work of collection, the answer is not far to seek. It is, that in the autumn of that year, 1845, an event occurred which so overwhelmed the editor of the Nalz on, - at first with grief, and afterwards with new cares and duties, - that he had no longer leisure left for devoting himself to the task of completing the collection. That event was the death of Thomas Davis in fact, the history of the Nation newspaper may be divided into three well-defined periods - of which the one terminating with Davis's death is the first; the next extending to the catastrophe of 48, when the presses of the Nation...
